

Hypo: under/below/less

Hyper: over/beyond

- hypothermia (noun): condition of having a body temperature that is below normal
- hypocritical (adj.): expressing feelings or virtues that one does not have; acting in a way that goes against one's stated beliefs
- hypochondriac (noun): someone who under estimates his or her health as being poorer than it is
- hypodermic (adj.): pertaining to under the skin
- hypothesis (noun): an idea that is under investigation
- hypotenuse (noun): side of a right triangle that is stretched "under" the right angle
- hyperventilate (verb): breathe excessively hard and fast; breathe over what is necessary
- hypersensitive (adj.): excessively sensitive; super sensitive; over sensitive
- hyperbole (noun): extreme exaggeration; over exaggerate
- hyperactive (adjective): over active; abnormally or extremely active
- hyperextend (verb): forcefully extend (a joint or limb) beyond its normal limits, either in exercise, therapy, or so as to cause injury
- hypercritical (adjective): overly critical; too severe in judgment; hard to please

Hypo: under/below/less

Hyper: over/beyond

- hypothermia (noun): condition of having a body temperature that is below normal
- hypocritical (adj.): expressing feelings or virtues that one does not have; acting in a way that goes against one's stated beliefs
- hypochondriac (noun): someone who under estimates his or her health as being poorer than it is
- hypodermic (adj.): pertaining to under the skin
- hypothesis (noun): an idea that is under investigation
- hypotenuse (noun): side of a right triangle that is stretched "under" the right angle
- hyperventilate (verb): breathe excessively hard and fast; breathe over what is necessary
- hypersensitive (adj.): excessively sensitive; super sensitive; over sensitive
- hyperbole (noun): extreme exaggeration; over exaggerate
- hyperactive (adjective): over active; abnormally or extremely active
- hyperextend (verb): forcefully extend (a joint or limb) beyond its normal limits, either in exercise, therapy, or so as to cause injury
- hypercritical (adjective): overly critical; too severe in judgment; hard to please