

Inter: betweenIntra: within

- interactive (adj.): (of two people or things) influencing or having an effect on each other
- interpersonal (adj): occurring among or involving several people
- interject (verb): to insert between other elements; say something abruptly
- intermission (noun): a pause or a break
- interstate (noun/adj): existing or carried on between states
- interfere (verb): get involved, as to alter or hinder an action through force or threat of force
- internet (noun): vast computer network linking computers worldwide
- intergalactic (adj): between or among galaxies
- intramural (adj): involving only students of the same school or college
- intrapersonal (adj): existing or occurring within the individual self or mind
- intravenous (adj): within or by means of a vein
- intranasal (adj): located or occurring within the nose

Inter: betweenIntra: within

- interactive (adj.): (of two people or things) influencing or having an effect on each other
- interpersonal (adj): occurring among or involving several people
- interject (verb): to insert between other elements; say something abruptly
- intermission (noun): a pause or a break
- interstate (noun/adj): existing or carried on between states
- interfere (verb): get involved, as to alter or hinder an action through force or threat of force
- internet (noun): vast computer network linking computers worldwide
- intergalactic (adj): between or among galaxies
- intramural (adj): involving only students of the same school or college
- intrapersonal (adj): existing or occurring within the individual self or mind
- intravenous (adj): within or by means of a vein
- intranasal (adj): located or occurring within the nose